Dear Brethren:

Thank you for inviting me to work with the Lexington congregation in a gospel meeting. It is not often that one has the privilege that I had this past week to return to his home congregation to preach the gospel. You were extremely thoughtful in inviting me, and I want you to know how much I personally appreciated it.

Sue and I and the children were cordially received by the entire congregation. We could not have been given a better welcome or a more genuine treatment. We thank you for everything you did to make the meeting possible, and for all the planning and prayers that went into the effort. I send you my best wishes and prayers for your continued leadership of the Lexington church.

Faternally yours,

John Allen Chalk
